VOL. XXII.—NO. 6594. PORTLAND, OREGON, THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1882. PRICE—FIVE CENTS.

GENERAL NEWS.

Strikers at Cleveland Stone the New Workmen and Police.

A SMALLPOX SCARE IN MINNESOTA AND DAKOTA.

Disastrous Flood at Indianapolis—Several Persons Drowned—A [illegible]—Young Man at Poughkeepsie Loses $150 000 at a Game of Poker.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

NEW YORK, June 14.—The troubles of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid society have multiplied so rapidly in the last three months that it will stop long, unceasing work by M. Kursheedt, an officer of the society, and his aids the number of immigrants on its hands increases every day faster than they are to be sent away or places found for them. That agent says if European committees continue to send them here at the rate of the last two weeks [illegible] have to apply to the public for aid. Sunday afternoon the society held a meeting to consider the problem before it. A dispatch was received during the meeting announcing that in Brody on the Russian and Galician frontier were 12 000 Russian refugees living on quarter rations and waiting for transportation to America. The New York society had sent a dispatch some weeks ago to Europe, requesting that no old people or large families of children should be sent, but they were disregarded and [illegible] while 12 000 will be sent here as fast as transportation can be found. European societies organized for the care and transportation of these people found themselves overwhelmed with penniless emigrants, and according to their view of the matter the sooner they get rid of them the better. Most of the Russian immigrants are entirely destitute but there are however exceptions. The system for the present is to send agents of the society to all large cities of the union where branch societies for the reception and disposal of Jews can be made. Meanwhile refugees now here are fed and clothed by the society. Fifty young men went to Chicago last evening.

They Drew a Cold Deck on Him.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., June 14.—Last night Dr. Montreville M. Hedges, dental surgeon and sporting man, was arrested here on a bench warrant issued by the justice of the supreme court. The complainant, Francis P. Weed, of this city, charges Hedges and Wm. M. Scott, the latter now dying of consumption in California, with cheating at games and conspiracy to defraud. It is stated the three played a game of poker in this city in June of last year, betting $150 000 on a single hand, and Weed and Hedges lost and Weed now charges that the hands were put up by Hedges and Scott, they to divide winnings. Weed had recently received from the estate of his deceased father a fortune estimated at about $500 000. Of the amount lost it is stated Weed paid defendants during the year over $190 000, having compromised for $120 000, and that $16 000 is yet due on the unpaid note. This Weed now desires to avoid paying, and has begun attachment proceedings against Hedges and Scott to recover as much as possible of what they have already received.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 14.—In the poker case of Weed vs Hedges to-day, Weed swore he lost $45 000 in one hour at faro, Scott and Hedges being dealers.

A Sensational Story.

CHICAGO, June 14.—A sensational story was received here last night to the effect that Mrs. Tibbetts, of Perham, Minn., mother of the boy Tibbetts, who was lynched for the murder of two engineers of the U. P. road, aided and abetted her offspring in planning the crime, and even planned with him and another lad to wreck the train for plunder, the plan falling through by the other boy backing out. It was added that the feeling against the unnatural mother who showed no grief for the fate of her boy, was such that citizens seriously threatened to lynch her also. The story turns out on investigation to be a hoax. No such feeling exists. The woman was declared insane six years ago by two physicians, and the feeling for her was more of pity than anger on account of her strange actions. The money found in her possession was given her by her husband.

Reinforcements for Fort McKinney.

OMAHA, June 14.—A company of cavalry left Fort Sidney, Neb., last evening for McKinney, Wyoming, to reinforce the garrison. Gen. Crook learns from the commandant there that it was rumored 1500 Indians were on Powder river below old Fort Kearney, but a few miles from the present fort, and that 300 lodges of Indians were on Rock creek. Stock men reported these Indians were killing cattle and threatening to attack herders. The commandant has not heard from his messenger sent to obtain actual facts, and Gen. Crook deemed it advisable to send troops.

Lynching a Lunatic.

CHICAGO, June 13.—An Atchison, Kansas special says: James McHahn, a section hand, working 39 miles below Las Vegas, being considered a half-wit, and fellow, was mercilessly tantalized and ridiculed by his companions. He threatened, unless the abuse ceased, to kill somebody, and eventually did shoot Tim Groves, the leader, killing him instantly. The section men seized McHahn and taking him to the station, hoisted him on a cross beam with a rope about his neck and let him drop 12 feet. The coroner's jury exonerated all parties.

Flood at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 14.—The severest storm of the season occurred last night. Two inches of rain fell and the city east of union depot is flooded along the railway track, and northwest up Pennsylvania, Delaware and Alabama streets cellars are rapidly filling. Fifteen or twenty persons were standing on the platform over Pogue's run, when it gave way and threw them into the water. Some were rescued and others passed through the culvert safely, while others are supposed to be drowned. It is impossible yet to give the number lost.

A Mormon Scheme.

OMAHA, June 14.—John T. Caine, D. H. Perry and F. S. Richards, Mormon delegates from the Utah constitutional convention, passed through Omaha to-day en route to Washington to present the constitution of Utah, as a state, to congress, and ask for admission. They will remain in Washington until congress adjourns, if necessary. The constitution provides a republican form of government, and does not touch the question of Mormonism.

A Smallpox Scare.

SALEM, Dakota, June 14.—Six cases of smallpox have developed at Bridgewater on the line of the Milwaukee & St. Paul extension. Salem has quarantined against Bridgewater. No trains stop at the infected town and no mail is taken there.

ST. PAUL, June 14.—There are half a dozen cases of smallpox in Minneapolis and quite a scare there. Webster school has been closed, but few fatalities have occurred.

Denver's Great Exposition.

DENVER, June 13.—The exposition buildings are now so well advanced in construction that there is little or no doubt that the exposition will open Aug. 1st. Exhibits are very numerous, and all the western states and territories will be thoroughly represented. Space was also applied for by Mexico, British North America and Australia.

Denver Notes.

DENVER, June 14.—Prospects for an abundant harvest were never so good in Colorado. Cool weather in May and abundant rains have insured a large yield of wheat and oats. Corn, in a few instances, has rotted in the ground. The acreage of potatoes is about one-third larger than ever before. A. F. Wilson, a mechanic, was killed by a falling wheel in Davis' machine shop, West Denver, this afternoon. Deceased came from Council Bluffs two weeks ago.

Robbers Strangled.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Las Vegas, N. M., special says: Four rustlers who bound and gagged Mason, a store keeper near Mesilla, recently, robbing his store of all they could carry, were overtaken by a Mexican posse and strangled. All were Americans, but their names are unknown. They belonged to a gang of Arizona cowboys and richly deserved their fate.

A Devilish Deed.

SEYMOUR, Ind., June 14.—Some evil disposed person last night, removed a rail on the Ohio & Mississippi road and the passenger train was thrown 15 feet down an embankment into a small stream. A tramp stealing a ride was killed, but none of the passengers were hurt.

A Point for Chicago.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The board of trade of east St. Louis has appointed a grain inspector for that city. The significance of this is that hereafter grain will be inspected according to the Chicago standard instead of the St. Louis standard, as heretofore. This action is claimed illegal, and to the detriment of St. Louis inspectors.

Conley's Body Found.

CHESTERFIELD, N. H., June 14.—The body of Geo. E. Conley, the noted operatic singer, was found in Spofford lake this morning. The remains will be sent to New York.

Suicide.

HEALDSBURG, June 14.—J. O. Smith, a native of Kentucky, aged 65, committed suicide in the mountains northwest of this city yesterday with a revolver. Reason unknown.

Dividend Declared.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Western Union declared a 1½ per cent quarterly dividend. After payment a surplus of $1 694 000 will remain. Earnings are at the rate of 8½ per cent per annum.

CANADA.

Taken a Heavy Contract.

MONTREAL, June 14.—The recorder is determined to stop the demoralizing practice of using blasphemous language on the public streets. He quoted the law which imposed a penalty of three years in the penitentiary for such offense and ordered arrest of all persons contravening that law in the respect alluded to.

Parliamentary Elections.

TORONTO, June 14.—Parliamentary elections are taking place. In Quebec ministerials and in Ontario two ministerial candidates were elected by acclamation.

Hanlan's Illness.

WINNIPEG, June 14.—[illegible] has [illegible] postpone the [illegible] under training [illegible] believed here that Hanlan [illegible] affect betting.

ROSECRANS EXPLAINS.

He Claims that Garfield Acted Ungenerously While under Him and had a [illegible] Ambition.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

W[illegible] Rosecrans [illegible] letters of Garfield [illegible] It is a very grave subject [illegible] Garfield [illegible] in which the general said [illegible] Garfield's letter to him dated Jan. 19, 1880, and said: There are two points in this letter to which I want to call attention. It is in reply to a brief note of mine calling his attention to the charge made by Dana in the Sun that my removal from the command of the army of the Cumberland was the direct result of a private letter which he (Garfield) wrote to Secretary Chase. In my note written a day or two after the charge appeared I did not wish him then to engage in any controversy that might embarrass him in his senatorial fight but I would be glad to have him deny the charge at an early day. In his reply Garfield makes many protestations. He speaks of having an interview with Secretary Stanton at Louisville and of having rebuked him for his denunciation of me and of having defended me against Stanton's assaults. He also asserts that Chase had written him while he was my chief of staff, in regard to progress of the war. Now it appears that instead of Chase writing Garfield it was Garfield writing to Chase in regard to the progress of the war. Garfield came to me bearing letters of introduction from valued friends. I had met him once in Columbus and knew he had been a state senator but never told me that he had been elected a representative in congress. I treated him with the utmost delicacy, with almost paternal consideration. I thought I saw in him a young man interested heart and soul in the success of our arms but besides what is not truth when he says in his letter to Chase that I offered him a division. He asked for a division and I told him I could not give him a division or even a brigade, with its propriety, over the heads of officers of senior rank. So I made him my chief of staff. Could all of these published letters to Secretary Chase contain [illegible] Garfield was a rhetorician and a lawyer. He says these things at the expense of facts. In the letter marked confidential he makes a misrepresentation of facts. He says of the movement against Bragg in June 1863 that of the eighteen generals whose opinion were asked he was the only one who counseled advance. The truth is he was not asked for an opinion but as my chief of staff had to read and copy opinions of the generals which I had asked written opinions. I asked him to make a summary of them to send to the war department, and was shocked at the indelicacy of the request he then made to be allowed to write me a letter analyzing these opinions and recommending an advance. I refused to allow him but told him I was going to make an advance in opposition to opinions of these generals and if he wanted to [illegible] write me a letter [illegible] views and this he did. My object was simply to have him present my views in the manner in which I knew he was capable of doing. Now as to the paragraph in his letter to me of June 1880 in which he speaks of having had an interview with and rebuked Stanton at Louisville, I believed him and so confident was I of his truth that I sent this letter to a friend who had warned me against him as a proof that he must be wrong; but one year ago when I attended the exercises at West Point Gen. Anson Stager told me that he was one of the four persons present at Louisville interviewed with Stanton and that what occurred there was just the reverse of what was stated by Garfield. I believed Stager, because I would place his word against that of Garfield. The general was asked if having this information, he had said anything to Garfield about it. Subsequent to Stager's statement he said that he had concluded not to say anything further about it, but let the matter rest.

The suggestion having been made that coming a year after this statement of Gen. Stager the publication of Garfield's confidential letter to Chase should not have surprised him. He replied:

"It did not surprise me. I had reached the conclusion that Garfield had misrepresented the facts of his interview with Stanton, but my speculations on the subject to him reached the extent of imagining that I had had a spy in my camp."

Being asked if he now felt satisfied that Garfield had written the letters in question, he said: "I did not doubt it."

In answer to the question what motive he thought had actuated Garfield, he answered:

"Ambition. He must have thought if I were removed he would succeed me. He left the army of the Cumberland, I think, on the 10th of October, ostensibly to take his seat in congress. He came to Washington, accepted a major general's commission and remained at the orders of the war department so he came to the arms of the man he afterwards said he had rebuked at Louisville on his way here and accepted a commission and had it after my removal from the command until he saw he stood no chance of being appointed to succeed me and then he resigned and went to congress. He did not resign until within a day or two after the meeting of congress. He was an untrue man."

The general then stated his entire belief that Gen. Garfield wrote the letters although he had not seen them. He said after the publication of the confidential letter two or three months ago Hon. Randall Gibson of Louisiana told him he had known of its existence for two years. He also stated a circumstance worthy of note that Judge Harden of this city, whose relations with Secretary Chase and the Chase estate were of a peculiarly confidential character, had told him that after 1863 Gen. Garfield's name did not appear more than two or three times in Secretary Chase's diary, and he was but seldom a visitor at Chase's house. This in the opinion of Gen. Rosecrans, was proof that Secretary Chase had changed his opinion of Gen. Garfield after he received the letters.

General Stager's Statement.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Gen. Stager's attention having been called to the remarks made by Rosecrans concerning him in relation to Garfield, says he does not remember seeing Rosecrans for years.

FIRES.

The Great Fire at Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 14.—The fire originated in Miller Son & Co.'s book binding and stationery store, and extended to the following premises, all of which now are gutted: Greenshields, Sons & Co., dry goods; Mandiere & French, do.; and Clendinning's stores. Losses on Miller's, $150 000; Greenshield's, $150 000; McIntyre & Co., $100 000; Clendenning building and stock $250 000, insured in all leading English and Canadian offices for three-fourth values.

LATER.—At 12:50 the fire rages fiercely as ever. Water power at the beginning was not sufficient to cover upper stories of buildings where flames had the strongest hold.

Disastrous Forest Fires.

MILWAUKEE, June 14.—A special to the Republican Sentinel from Neillsville, Wis., states that a forest fire is now destroying the best pine in Clark county; that the indications are that the destruction will be greater than occurred during the great Peshtigo fire which occurred the same year Chicago burned. The fire is rushing northwest with fearful rapidity and has made great havoc and will reach the Eau Claire river inside of two days. All logging camps will be destroyed. Fortunately there are no farms in the course the flames are now traveling. The loss in standing pine is already enormous and falls most heavily upon parties at Dubuque, Iowa, La Crosse, Wis., and land owners at the east.

Fire at Texarkana.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 13.—The Gazett has received particulars of a great fire at Texarkana yesterday destroying several buildings in the business center of the city and estimates the loss at one hundred and seventy five thousand dollars, insurance ninety-five thousand, mostly in northern companies.

Round House Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—The round house of the Philadelphia & Atlantic City Railway Co. at Kaighn's point burned to-day, and nine of eleven locomotives were destroyed. Loss about $100 000.

Fire at South Braintree.

BOSTON, June 14.—A fire at South Braintree this morning destroyed the best business buildings in town containing the postoffice, Grand Army hall, market, drug store, clothing store, club room, etc. Loss, $60 000, partial insurance.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Conclusion of Blaine's Testimony before the Investigating Committee.

TRESCOTT APPEARS BEFORE THEM AND TELLS HIS STORY.

An Application Made by Guiteau's Counsel for His Release on a Writ of Habeas Corpus—General Political Notes.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Examination of Blaine was resumed before the house committee on foreign affairs this morning. Chairman Williams [illegible] relative to [illegible] Randall [illegible] stated Randall was a stranger. He first approached him in February 1881. Sent his card in with [illegible] and began conversation with the assumption that he (witness) was a member of President Garfield's cabinet. He (witness) [illegible] for it was possible in the conversation. Witness [illegible] Randall [illegible] He (witness) never looked upon Randall as a person with whom to discuss affairs of the credit industrial.

Count De Montferrand [illegible] of high standing was their director and he and [illegible] had been persistent in pressing the objects of the company on the attention of the state department. The United States was asked to [illegible] and guarantee [illegible] furthering the interests of citizens of four European governments when it could exercise no control whatever over the operations of this company. Blaine denied many statements of Randall. He never [illegible] Randall [illegible] advice about [illegible] what instructions would be given Hurlbut or Trescott. The state department never countenanced the [illegible] of an American [illegible] arbitrate. It would have been a terrible blunder. He thought peace would ere this have been established in Chili and Peru had not Trescott's instructions been revoked. Either the United States or some European power must intervene now to make peace. The United States must soon take more decided ground than witness took. It can't play the dog in the manger and neither intervene or suffer intervention. He had not intended to say the English cabinet, but English influences had brought about the trouble. He censured severely the conduct of the British minister at Lima. He had sent to Chili a dispatch [illegible] incensed Chili against Hurlbut and when questioned said it was merely a joke and Hurlbut thought him very proper. It was a frivolous and low way of getting out of a dishonorable transaction.

Witness said in the form of testimony he said: A dirty democratic press. He meant a dirty portion of the democratic press. All the better element of the democratic press had taken a high patriotic ground on this matter and some republican papers had been as dirty as any in treating it. Adjourned.

Trescott will be examined to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—At the conclusion of his testimony yesterday Blaine said: "I wish to repeat what I said the last day I was here. That was that as I offered myself in perfect good faith for any and every question that could possibly be propounded to me in connection with the investigation in all its length and breadth, its height and depth and I am still subject to the wishes of the committee. I have nothing to withhold. I court the most careful and searching investigation into these matters not only through questions that the committee may desire to put to me but through questions that any citizen of the United States may desire to ask through members of the committee. If there is any chapter in my life associated with the great man who has gone of which I am proud, and of the complete and absolute vindication of which in history I feel sure it is that in connection with the policy laid down by the administration of President Garfield, with respect to South American states."

Wilson—As to the ability of this government now to procure proper adjustment and settlement of difficulties between Chili and Peru do you think it is now too late for the United States to try to do so?

Blaine—No, sir, it is not.

Wilson—How could that be brought about?

Blaine—I am sure you could hardly consider that to be testimony. I have declined to speak in regard to the policy of Evarts. It is not for me to suggest a policy for Frelinghuysen. I believe that the policy of intervention and good offices which was tried by the government of the United States, and which it was the especial mission of Trescott to have carried out, would have been by and by successful. If the committee desires to go to the very bottom of this matter and get all that can be told of it a witness is in town. It is Hon. W. H. Trescott, a gentleman whom I consider more highly skilled in diplomacy than any other citizen of the United States, a man of entire integrity, a man of great frankness of character and who is, I presume, at the service of the committee.

Trescott's Testimony.

W. H. Trescott testified to-day that his mission was to bring the warring states of Chili, Peru and Bolivia together, and if possible make peace. He knew nothing of the Shipherd correspondence and never saw him but once. Knew nothing of the U. S. minister being corrupted by the Credit Industrial or other company and never saw anything showing that Hurlbut had corruptly influenced the Chilian foreign secretary. He said the Chilian government had no charge whatever against Hurlbut. Answering Belmont he said the Credit Industrial had the only plan which seemed to be able to pay the war indemnity, but were made so as to convey wrong impressions. They are torn from their connection with other issues far between two parties.

He had communicated with nobody on this matter except Robert Randall, who first wrote him, but he refused to disclose whether Blaine or Randall was right in his testimony. Randall thought Blaine had taken part against his (Randall's) company. In point of fact the question had never been even considered. He refused to answer questions conflicting with his duty to the president and secretary of state. After some further questioning by Belmont, nothing important being elicited, Trescott was excused for the present.

Democratic Documents.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Special from Washington: The attention of republican members of congress has been called to a significant proceeding on the part of the democratic congressional committee in getting ready for the coming campaign. A pamphlet has been prepared in the guise of a public document being endorsed, part of Congressional Record, and is permitted to go free through the mails. The pamphlet contains extracts of speeches made for and against Chinese immigration so selected as best to suit democratic purposes. The evident intention is to place the republican party in the light of an enemy to the welfare and interests of free American labor. The first part of the pamphlet is devoted to extracts from the speeches of Democrats Cassidy, Berry, Tucker, Deuster, Buckner, Richardson, Blount, Curtin, Townsend and McLane, all democrats. The Chinese restriction law is claimed to be a democratic measure originated and passed by democratic votes with the help of an insignificant number of republicans. The Morey letter is again displayed carefully concealing the exposure made of that forgery. Extracts made from democratic speeches are those which are best calculated to make the poor laborer believe the democratic party is his friend and protector and the republican party his enemy.

Denver's Public Building.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The supervising architect of the treasury has received fourteen proposals for a site for a public building at Denver, at prices ranging from $1000 to $10 000, but has made no selection.

The Star Route Cases.

Thos. S. Nightingale, attorney at Loup City, Neb., testified he wrote the petition for increase and expedition of the route from Kearney to Kent but not the interlineation. Thirteen hours schedule and didn't know who did.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The house foreign affairs committee having concluded the examination of Senator Blaine will to-day examine Special Envoy Trescott as to his knowledge of the papers missing from the files of the state department. It is thought possible that Trescott may have seen the papers when preparing for his recent mission to South America. He will appear before the committee if permitted to do so by the state department.

All absent republican senators have been telegraphed for in anticipation of vote on tariff commission to-day.

Samuel Hanes, a New York iron merchant, will probably be Wheeler's successor on the tariff commission.

Justice Bradley has under consideration an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Guiteau made upon grounds that criminal court had no jurisdiction.

Blaine's testimony before the foreign affairs committee attracted much attention, and the result was very satisfactory to his friends. They feel that attacks upon his administration have been fairly and fully met at every point and defeated.

It is said by parties in a good position to know that the president was not thoroughly satisfied with Cameron's course in Pennsylvania, and a fresh attempt will be made to bring about a settlement of the difficulty, possibly by a new convention later in the season.

The cabinet held a secret meeting yesterday. Secretary Chandler was the only absentee. Selection of members of the tariff [illegible] Wheeler and Phelps [illegible] declined was discussed and [illegible]

Garland introduced an amendment to the recent Geneva award act providing for claims of British owners for property [illegible] while under the American flag.

[illegible] resolution supplying each senator with 1,000 [illegible] was adopted [illegible] nays 9.

[illegible]

Plumb, Dawes and Cockrell were [illegible] on the district appropriation bill.

Blair made a speech upon illiteracy in states and the urgent need for an adequate appropriation in aid of common schools.

Allison reported back from the finance committee with amendments the [illegible] bill.

The Japanese indemnity bill was called up in committee [illegible]

The only notable feature of the proceedings in committee of the whole was a speech [illegible] explanatory of the circumstances [illegible] Japan [illegible] Butler and George stated their position to it in view of changes made by the senate.

Sherman said he would vote against it because he believed it to be a sensational bill and thought the money was not due to Japan.

Logan said he would vote against the bill for the new reason that it did not suit him. [Laughter.] He deprecated higgling over a question from one congress to another and asserted the return of interest as well as principal was essential to vindicate the honor and credit of the nation. Bill passed—yeas 35, nays 13.

The bill as passed authorizes and directs the president to pay the government of Japan $785 000 in coin through the United States minister at Japan, and directs that all bonds now owned or controlled by the state department and designated in the department reports as 'The Japanese Indemnity Fund' shall be canceled and destroyed. Section two directs the secretary of the treasury to pay from the treasury $140 000 as prize money to the officers and crews of the United States S. S. Wyoming, and steamer Tacking, or their legal representatives, for services in the Straits of Shimonoseki in 1863 and 1864; no payment to be made to the assignee of any mariner but to the mariner himself or his legal representatives or order of their duly authorized attorney. Adjourned.

House.

House went into committee on the legislative appropriation bill.

In house to-day White said it was stated before the ways and means committee that its chairman had made a bargain to help whisky men if they would help tariff men.

Kelley denounced the statement as the raving of a maniac or a deliberate lie and added the gentleman may be scoundrel enough to make that statement.

Springer moved that both be reprimanded.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—Recent arrivals from Sydney state the steamer Ranelagh has been totally lost on King's reef, thirty miles north of Cardwell, Queensland. Passengers and crew saved, but mails and cargo lost.

AUCKLAND, May 14.—During a heavy sea the iron ships Ben Venue and City of Perth, parted cables in Timaru harbor, Canterbury, and became total wrecks. Crews escaped. Alexander Mills, harbor master, accompanied by other boats subsequently boarded the City of Perth, but in attempting to return some of them were capsized. A life boat to the rescue was twice upset and seven lives lost, including Mills.

Bodie Mining Notes.

BODIE, June 14.—During the week Standard extracted 1421 tons and shipped $13 154. Water in the shaft has been lowered to the 1100 station in the east cross cut and the 1000 level is in 750 feet. The south drift from the same is 260 feet long with vein matter five feet wide. No change in the upper levels. Bodie crushed 92 tons, average assay $66. Shipment $3400. Winze seventeen is down 31 feet. Gangways have been started at 670 level each at feet long and both showing very rich ore in the face. All workings in the mine are looking well. Tent shaft is down 960 feet. Noonday and North Noonday drift along the foot wall of the ledge on the 275 incline level is in 36 feet north and 40 feet south. This was anticipated to be a barren portion of the vein but much rich ore has been encountered in both directions. Cross cuts will be run soon. Boston Con is cutting a station at 500 level, encountered an unexpected 18 inch vein giving good assays in gold on which a north drift had been started. Goodshaw is running drifts north and south on vein matter. Oro east cross-cut is in 260 feet. It is estimated that the hanging wall of the fissure is about 20 feet distant. Bodie tunnel continues crushing steadily. B. I. Cloud is still sinking. The flow of water has increased. In the Cross district Sweetwater mines are [illegible] filled with prospectors and reports are daily received of rich strikes. Several capitalists have been and are now visiting the district with a view to investing.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.

Reasons why a New Trial was not Granted to John C. Powers, who is Sentenced to Death.

[illegible]

J. C. Powers was indicted by the grand jury of Multnomah county for the murder of [illegible] in the city of Portland on the evening of the 4th of July 1881. He was tried and found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death. A motion for a new trial was overruled.

The only error alleged to have occurred at the trial that calls for consideration was the ruling out of the declarations of the appellant to the witness Imbrie of the purpose of his the prisoner's visit to Morrison street wharf on the morning of the day of the homicide. The prosecution proved by Miss Lilly Cornelius that the prisoner said to her in connection with other declarations in October 1880 that on the fourth day of next July he would give her a chance to go to some one else's funeral, and in May 1881 he told Oliver Hinman that on the 4th day of next July he the prisoner would have a new lease of life.

In Benedict vs the state 14 Wis. 42, Dixon C. J. says: Experience demonstrates that the minds of many persons are so constituted that when intent upon the commission of crime secrecy becomes impossible and they cannot refrain from giving vent to their designs [illegible] threats and make mysterious and blind allusions to [illegible] a dark hint [illegible] the shadow of the coming tragedy. The defense [illegible] this testimony as evidence tending to show that the prisoner designed to kill Cornelius on that particular day, and offered to prove that on the morning of the 4th of July 1881 the prisoner went to the foot of Morrison street with the intention of leaving the city by boat for St. Helens. The court allowed the visit to the wharf to be proven by the witness Imbrie but ruled out what the prisoner said to the witness [illegible] way to the wharf of the object of his visit to the wharf.

The relevancy of the testimony of Lilly Cornelius and Oliver Hinman lies in its tendency to show a murderous purpose generally against the deceased. Had the killing taken place on any other day than the 4th, the declarations would still have been admissible, like the declaration of the prisoner to Lilly in September 1880 that he would kill her father that night. Neither the fact of the declarations nor the malice they are supposed to imply is controverted by the evidence for the defense. The point as argued on the part of the prisoner is to show that the prisoner did not intend to kill Cornelius on that day, not that there had been a change of intention generally or any abatement of malice. The whole transaction of the visit to the wharf was irrelevant. Hunt vs Roylance 11 Cush. 117; Blight vs Ashley 1st C. C. 20; Jones vs the state 11 Texas 176.

The appellant rests this appeal chiefly on error alleged in the order overruling the motion for a new trial. The newly discovered evidence set out in the affidavits of Hawks Hira and Courtney Meek affords no ground for a new trial. Hawks is a resident of San Francisco and without the jurisdiction of the court. Hawks' reputation for truth has been impeached by counter affidavits, and Courtney Meek was a witness at the trial. No good reason is given why he did not then testify to the matter now found in his affidavit.

After the verdict was rendered the prisoner discovered that one of the petit jurors R. A. Sutherland had been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude and was not therefore qualified to sit in the case. The disqualification of this juror was greatly and chiefly relied on to reverse the judgment of the circuit court. Cases from Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Vermont, State vs Babcock 1 Conn. 401 and Concord vs The People 18 N. Y. 134 were cited for the appellant.

Schumaker vs The State 5 Wisconsin 324, was where after a conviction for manslaughter a motion was made for a new trial on account of the alienage of one of the jurors not discovered until after the verdict. The motion was granted with some hesitation and without much examination of authorities.

The doctrine laid down is that found in Guykowski vs The People 1 Scam. State vs Babcock 1 Conn. and cases from Vermont. These authorities are adversely commented on by Gray C. J. in Wassum vs Feeney 121 Mass. 93.

In State vs Vogle 22 Wis.—a case of arson—there is a dictum unsupported that in capital cases the prisoner is not held to waive anything. Concord vs The People was cited in the argument of counsel.

Hill vs The People 16 Mich. 351 was a capital case in which the verdict was set aside and a new trial granted because one of the jurors was an alien and this fact was unknown to the defendant or his counsel until after the rendition of the verdict.

The question in fact discussed in this case was whether the defendant in a criminal prosecution could consent to a trial and by such consent bind himself to abide by the verdict of a jury of eleven men. It was held in Concord vs the people 18 N. Y. that a verdict by such a jury was a nullity. In state vs Kaufman 51 Iowa, the same question came up and was decided the other way. Granting therefore the position taken in Hill vs the people that in legal contemplation the case is to be treated as if he (the disqualified juror) had never been placed upon the jury, it not still [illegible] the way to the conclusion reached is not clear. But in Hill vs the people the court heard parol proof to contradict the record. The record must have shown what it shows in this case that the jury were all good and lawful men. It is a principle of the common law that no plea shall be admitted to impugn the verity of the record, and the principle will be found substantially applied to the case where a defendant fails to take exception to an objectionable juror, and the case goes to verdict. Boyington vs the state 2 Port. 100; Hall vs the state 4 Gr. Iowa 73.

In Hollingsworth vs Duane, Wallace C. C. 152 it is said to be against the policy of the law to allow such an objection to be taken after verdict. It should as soon have excluded to have heard an argument to prove that the verdict ought to be set aside because the plaintiff was an alien enemy or labored under some other disqualification, which ought to have been pleaded in abatement as to hear it maintained that it was competent, after verdict to inquire whether a juror was an alien, an infant, a servant, a freeholder of affinity to the party interested, infamous, favorable. Upon the record no exception appears. Id., 153. This was a civil case, but the principle governs in criminal cases. Gillespie vs The State, 8 Yerg. 508.

In Wassum vs Feeney 121 Mass. 94, one of the jurors who tried the case was but 19 years of age. Upon a motion to set aside the verdict on this ground Gray C. J. says: "When a party has had an opportunity to challenge, no disqualification of a juror entitles him to a new trial after verdict. This [illegible] rule has been applied by this court not only to a juror disqualified by interest or relationship—Jeffries vs Randall 14 Mass. 205; Woodward vs Dean 113 Mass. 297—but even in a capital case to a juror who was not of the county of vicinage as required by the constitution and the Declaration of Rights Art. 13. Amon [illegible] cited by Jackson J. in 1 Pick. 41."

The same rule has been applied by other courts to disqualification by reason of alienage although it is not known until after verdict. Hollingsworth vs Duane 4 Dall. 353; 8 C. Wall. C. C. 147; The State vs Quarrel 2 Bay 150; Presbury vs Commonwealth 1 Dana 203; The King vs Sutton 8 B. & C. 417; 5 Eng. Com. [illegible] The King vs Dunsard 2 Man. and Ry. 406. In the case of the Chelsea Waterworks Co. 10 Exch. 731, Baron Parke said: In the case of a trial by jury per medietatem linguae which by the 47th section of the jury act is expressly reserved to an alien he may not know whether proper persons are on the jury, yet if he was found guilty and sentenced the verdict would not be set aside because he was tried by improper persons for he ought to have challenged them.

In United States vs Baker, 3 Benedict 68, a motion was made to set aside the verdict in a criminal case because after the verdict it was found that one of the jurors was deaf. In denying the motion Blatchford J. said: On principle as well as on authority nothing that is a cause of challenge to a juror before verdict can be used to set aside a verdict as for a mistrial even though the cause of challenge was unknown to the party when the jury was sworn.

McClure vs the state 1 Yerg. 206, 216 was a capital case in which it was discovered after the verdict that one of the jurors who found the verdict was an alien. This was not held to be [illegible] moral capacity of the juror. Mr. Justice Catron afterward of the supreme court of the United States while under the opinion that this was not a ground for challenge under the laws of Tennessee went on to say: The objection comes too late. If a juror is not a good and lawful man, can he be challenged after he is sworn? The ancient and well settled English authorities are that you cannot challenge the juror after he has been sworn unless it be for cause arising afterwards. We adopted the right of trial by jury as we found it at the time we declared our independence as a government in 1776. The English common law and the statutes passed before the 4th James I were adopted. By these statutes and by the common law we are now bound in the administration of justice in this state.

If the rules of decision were well settled and we are bound by them why look into the doubtful decisions of sister states? Nothing has been better settled for centuries in England than that after a juror has once sworn he cannot be challenged for any pre-existing cause. 1 Inst. 158 a; 3 Vin. Abr. E 11; [illegible] 2 Hawk. Pl. Cr. Ch. [illegible] a settled point of practice that no juror can be challenged either by the king or prisoner without consent after he has been sworn, unless it be for some cause which happened since he was sworn. It would be most dangerous [illegible]

[illegible] has been sworn [illegible] cause that has happened since [illegible] The challenge proper [illegible] before he is sworn. If not then made the defendant waives his right to challenge. [illegible] And in conformity with this rule of practice is the ancient formula used by clerks both in England and in this country in their address to prisoners before the jurors are drawn: "Prisoner, these good men that you shall hear called and personally appear are to pass between our sovereign and you upon your trial of life and death; if therefore you will challenge them or any of them your time is to speak unto them as they come to the book to be sworn and before they are sworn."

George vs the State 39 Miss. 570, 90 was a capital case in which it was found after verdict that one of the jurors was an alien. A motion for a new trial for this cause was denied. State vs Quarrel 2 Bay 150; (1 Am. Dec. 637); State vs Fisher 2 Nott & McCord 261; and Hollingsworth vs Duane 4 Dall. 353 are cited. The special grounds alleged by the court that the objection the juror was one of a special venire into whose qualifications the defendant had an opportunity to inquire before trial would be applicable here since it appears on the record that Sutherland was drawn from the regular panel of jurors in attendance upon the court. It was not necessary that the defense should have power to examine the juror concerning the matter of his disqualification before he was sworn although in fact they had this power. Gen. Laws of Oregon page 276 sec. 187. He had the opportunity and was bound to make the inquiry through other sources and was at liberty to prove the disqualification by other testimony. Burt vs Panjaud 99 U. S. 180.

It follows that though what the court said in state vs McDonald 8 Org. 118 may have been dictum as the defense claimed it is nevertheless good law.

The last point to be considered is the objection to the sufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict. In State vs Wilson 6 Oregon 428 the court seemed not to have considered this a ground of error on appeal. A writ of error for a refusal to grant a new trial did not lie at common law. U. S. vs Gilbert, 2 Sumn. 5 and while the court in state vs Wilson hardly deem to have decided the point it will probably be found difficult to escape the conclusion indicated. It is not now however necessary to express any opinion since it must be admitted that the jury were the sole judges of the weight of the evidence. There is testimony to support the verdict and we cannot inquire further. State vs Musick 71 Mo. 401; State vs Cook 58 Mo. 546; Miller vs Petrie 40 Mich. 607; Dickerson vs The State, 48 Wis. 288.

The judgment must be affirmed.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Baker.

Full returns are not all in but the state ticket will run about even. George and Hirsch a little ahead. Smith has 56 majority, and Fenton 60 with three small precincts to hear from. One precinct is republican by 5 or 6 and the other two democratic by about the same. It is safe to say that no man on the state ticket will have 100 majority.

The democrats have elected their entire county ticket except coroner by majorities from 30 to 120. A great deal of scratching was done on both sides.

THE LEGISLATURE.

It is now known that the republicans will certainly have 16 majority on joint ballot. The roll is as follows:

Counties	House Rep.	House Dem.	Senate Rep.	Senate Dem.
Baker		2		1
Benton	2	1		1
Clackamas	3	1	1	1
Clatsop and joint	1		1
Columbia	1
Coos and Curry	2			1
Douglas	4		[illegible]
Grant	1		1
Jackson		2		1
Josephine	1			1
Lake		1
Linn		6	1	2
Lane	1	[illegible]		2
Marion	6		3
Multnomah	7		3
Polk and joint	3		1	1
Umatilla	1	1		1
Union		4		1
Wasco	1	1		1
Washington	1	2	1
Yamhill	2		2
Total	37	22	16	14

Not included in this list is the Yamhill representative on whom there was a tie. Another election is to be held to decide this contest. If the republicans elect their majority in the legislature will be 18. Otherwise it will be 16 as above stated.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A testimonial (so called) published in THE OREGONIAN purporting to have come from Julie Rive King the famous pianist and without the signature of the author wherein she appears to now endorse the Steinway piano demands a reply. Not only in justice to this great artist but in justice to the famous Decker Bros. piano, which Madam King uses exclusively at all of her concerts. Perfection in the construction of a piano is the great desideratum desired by such artists as Madam King. We admit that the Steinway once sustained quite a fair reputation—purchased with money—and many were sold for first-class pianos. But like the stage coach of the olden time it is left behind to give place to the elegant palace car. Messrs. Decker Bros. of New York after forty years of untiring energy have produced the crowning perfection in a piano forte. So enviable is their reputation that unprincipled parties have attempted to pirate their name and counterfeit their pianos. Yes, resurrect from dusty archives forgotten testimonials to support their failing business. In conclusion suffice it to say that the most convincing proof of the superiority of the Decker Bros. piano is that Madam King uses no other at all of her concerts. An electrotype testimonial to Messrs. Decker Bros. bearing her autograph will appear in a few days.

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 15, 1882

OUR SPENDTHRIFT NAVY.

The house naval committee has proposed a bill to provide a permanent construction fund for the navy. It is proposed by the committee that the secretary of the navy shall be authorized to cause to be condemned and sold all unserviceable stores and supplies now under control of the department and all vessels which are not fit for further service, and all unfinished vessels which can not be completed without great expense; and that the proceeds of such sales shall be turned in to the treasury to the credit of the permanent construction fund of the navy. It is intended that this fund shall comprise the appropriations made from time to time by congress and the net proceeds arising from the sales of old and condemned materials, stores, supplies and vessels, and that the fund shall be expended by the secretary in the construction, armament and equipment of new vessels. The secretary is to be limited to the expenditure of $2,000,000 annually out of the construction fund; and to be required to report each year to congress the proceeds of all sales and what vessels have been built or authorized to be built out of the fund. It is generally conceded that the navy needs renovating, and it would be wise to sell all worthless vessels and materials and begin the new navy from the very foundation, but the committee's proposition to create a huge fund amounting to millions of dollars to be used at the discretion of the secretary, practically without control of congress, is likely to meet with earnest opposition in that body.

The records of the naval department form a monotonous story of extravagance, mismanagement and neglect. It appears from secretary Chandler's response to Mr. Abram S. Hewitt's comprehensive resolution of inquiry, recently sent to the house, that the navy department does not regard any vessel in our service as efficient, in respect to ordnance, to engage in battle with an enemy of the same general classification, and that it would require from five to seven years to manufacture the guns, munitions, and equipments required for rearming the ships. Twenty four are reported efficient except as to ordnance, while forty-four are deficient either in machinery, equipments, or repairs, and seventeen are worthless. The remainder are tugs and old vessels used for store-ships and barracks, or mere hulks and dispatch-boats. It is estimated that it would require $11,521,541 to supply the sixty-eight vessels with ordnance, and $10,900,000 to put them in good condition, or a total of $22,514,141 to put the whole navy in fighting trim. Enormous sums of money were spent on many of these vessels either in construction or repairs, between 1865 and 1881, and the greater part of it between the years 1869 and 1875, and yet many of the vessels upon which the money was wasted are now worthless or nearly so. The repairs to the Tennessee since 1865 amounted to $1,444,348. The bureau of construction and repairs spent on her in the years 1872-3-4-5 about $986,000, and the bureau of steam engineering $239,000 in 1874-5. The bureau of equipment has expended on her since 1865 the sum of $476,2[illegible], about one-third of which was expended in 1874-5, and it would cost now [illegible] to fit her for fighting an enemy of the same class. Repairs to the Kearsarge since 1865 have cost about $909,900, a great part of which was expended between 1873 and 1878. It would cost $80,900 to put her in condition to fight a vessel of the same class. Both of these vessels are now in active service with the north Atlantic squadron. The screw wooden steamer Antietam, [illegible] tons, was built by the government in 1867 and has cost $[illegible], not including machinery, but the secretary of the navy reports that this large vessel, which has cost over $500,000, is so badly decayed that she is "not fit for naval purposes." The Colossus, which was built in 1864, and cost $1,111,731 without machinery, is condemned as worthless. The department has spent since 1868 on the steamer Colorado for repairs alone $838,030, of which $155,506 were spent in one year; but the secretary now reports that she needs extensive repairs, and that it would require a year and a half and an expenditure of $850,000 to fit her for sea service. The total amount she has already cost the government is $4,410,603. The Florida, upon which nearly $[illegible] were spent for repairs in 1874, and which has cost the government $[illegible] exclusive of machinery, is not worth repairing, as it would take a year to fit her for sea, and cost $150,000. The sum of $127,[illegible] has been spent since 1869 in repairing the captured blockade runner Frolic, and she now needs extensive repairs, but is "not fit for naval purposes." The Franklin, which has cost for repairs since 1860 $136,719, cannot be put in good order in much less than two years, and the work would make her total cost $1,080,885. The Java was commenced in 1864, and has cost nearly $600,000, but was never finished, and the secretary says is not worth finishing. In 1870-71 $160,000 in repairs was put on the Kansas, a vessel which has cost the government $880,394, but she is now worthless. It is thought that the [illegible], which has cost over $900,000 in repairs since 1865, can be put in order for service within a month by an expenditure of $10,300. The Massachusetts, which was built in 1863, and cost $1,328,729, is not worth repairing. The Miantonomah was begun in 1874, remains unfinished, has cost $721,205 without machinery, and it would require one year and $275,000 to fit her for service. The Minnesota has cost nearly $1,000,000 for repairs, and can not be fitted for sea in less than a year and a half, and at a cost of $350,000. It would cost $220,000 to finish the Monadnock, which has already cost $[illegible]. On the steamer Ontario $441,112 has been put for repairs since 1865, more than half of it in 1870, but it would take $150,000 to get her ready for service. The Oregon and the Niagara, which cost about $1,500,000 each, are worthless. Nearly $600,000 has been spent on the Puritan, and it would require two year's time and $790,000 to finish her. The Pensacola is in service but has cost $1,051,618 for repairs since 1865, $700,000 of which was expended in 1869-70. In the last-mentioned years $160,000 was expended in repairs on the Saco, which is now worthless; $496,301 on the Wabash, which cannot be fitted for sea for less than $250,000, and over $600,000 on the Wyoming, which is now worthless. The list might be extended, but the story is tiresome in its monotony.

If he can possibly find opportunity to do so, Oregon's representative in congress, we trust, will urge the demand of this coast for abrogation or termination of the Hawaiian treaty. Such action is called for by the whole people of Oregon. The convention which nominated Mr. George for re-election put the demand in the form of a resolution. Towards the close of a session there is always a pressure of business on the regular file; yet representatives from this coast, who know more of the treaty and its effects than others, should make effort to secure attention to this matter, and if possible, action upon it.

An unnecessary amount of trouble has been taken by the Mormons to prepare Utah for admission as a state. Some time since they formed a constitution, which was recently submitted to a vote. Few except the Mormons paid any attention to the matter. The result was 28,814 votes for the constitution and only 498 against it. Of course the Mormons will not get Utah admitted. The country will not give polygamy a chance to intrench itself behind the powers of a state.

The tariff commission is a farce. All or nearly all the men nominated for members of it are deeply interested in perpetuating the abuses of the present system.

LABOR TROUBLES EAST.

The fact that multitudes of laborers, in nearly all the leading lines of industry in the eastern states, have struck against the wages they receive, alleging that it is not possible for them to live unless they can get more pay, is a striking commentary upon the fallacies of our so-called protective system. It is a contest between poorly paid laborers and capitalists with plethoric wallets. Within the last twelve months there has been a rise in eastern cities of over twenty-five per cent. in the wholesale prices of the poor man's staples, and much more in the retail rates at which he is compelled to buy. Rents too have gone up with food and fuel; and yet wages have not advanced. Manufacturers have large stocks ahead, and are prepared to resist the demands of workingmen, and at the same time to hold up the market. Protection, so-called, is crushing labor and aggrandizing capital. It makes the prices of all the articles which the workingman must have enormously high, and yet does not give him wages to enable him to buy them. These strikes are the most eloquent and conclusive of all arguments against the assumption that the system upheld by our government "protects" the workingman. It protects only the capitalist, the greedy monopolist, the wealthy manufacturer. The workingman is in a fair way to find this out. When he does find it out and acts upon the knowledge, the system and its pampered beneficiaries will be brought to judgment together.

Cleopatra's needle, which was set up in Central Park, New York, last year, has been seriously affected by the winds, rains and frosts of the winter, and shows signs of crumbling. It has been accustomed too many centuries to the balmy air of Egypt to readily become acclimatized, and threatens to go into a decline unless a change is made. Just what needs to be done, nobody yet seems to know; but it is probable that the dear old monolith will be given inside quarters in one of the Central Park, museums. If, however, the obelisk insists that it is time to quit and will crumble away, Mr. Vanderbilt need not lose his investment. The material of the ancient slab seems exactly the thing required for street work in Portland. Our contractors could afford to take it off Mr. Vanderbilt's hands as crushed rock, returning him his original payment of one hundred thousand dollars, and even without advancing their present rates for rock work. It is hardly possible that this opportunity escaped the observation of Commander Gorringe, who visited us last fall; and we may expect a suggestion of this plan from him, unless measures are adopted to preserve the needle in its present shape.

Undeterred by the failure of Arthur Orton to establish his claim to the Tichborne estate, Frank Pixley, editor of the Argonaut, presents a new "claimant." Mr. Pixley has made a study of the California representative of this now celebrated character, and expresses his firm conviction that he is the only genuine Roger Charles Tichborne of Tichborne. The new "claimant" has been a guest of the editor-lawyer, who says of him that "he is well informed and has the manners and bearing of a gentleman." The peculiarity of the California claimant's case is that he does not propose to spend any money in the prosecution of his suit. The question having been settled by act of parliament, the new Roger Charles "relies with entire confidence upon the honor of his relatives and upon the honor of English gentlemen to recognize him and restore to him what in equity and honor he may justly claim." The amusing feature of this business is the implicit confidence which the claimant's new-found friends have in "honor" as affording means of recognition of a man who has admittedly endured so many vicissitudes during the past twenty-five years that even his own mother might not know him by sight.

The national Baptist convention has taken a noteworthy and radical stand in behalf of the Indians. The theory of the Baptists, as expressed in their discussions and reports, is that the red man ought to be given an ample reservation of land and left in undisturbed possession thereof for twenty years, and be given implements with which to labor, so that the race may become self-supporting. It is mighty well; only the trouble will be to carry out the idea—that is, to induce the Indian to work. He would rather not.

Estimates of this year's wheat crop in California, prepared by the San Francisco Journal of Commerce, place the total at nearly 30,000,000 centals, 1,500,000 tons. It is probably too great an estimate. In many parts of the state the crops are a partial, and in some a total failure.

THE BARLOW ROAD.

THE MT. HOOD AND BARLOW ROAD COMpany having recently purchased the franchise of the "Old Barlow Road Company," announce that their road across the Cascade Mountains is open for all kinds of travel. The company having constructed a branch road from Sandy P. O. to the Toll Gate up the south bank of the river Sandy, the travel will be able to avoid the long, tedious route over the "Devil's Back Bone" and the five miles of heavy sand on the old road.

The bridges are all in good repair, and all the heavy hills are graded. The company are spending large amounts of money on the road, and will spare no pains nor expense in maintaining it as the best road over the Cascade Mountains in this state. Supply stations with provisions at the Toll Gate, Summit Prairie and White River. Tolls reasonable.

H. E. CROSS, Secretary. F. O. McOWN, President.

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 15, 1882.

CITY.

READY FOR BUSINESS.—When a Chinaman starts out upon the deserted streets for a moonlight ramble to muse upon the charms of solitude and the beauties of nature in repose, he never knows what may turn up. He might meet some hoodlum who never thought of nature or his neighbor's chickens, and who wouldn't exactly agree with him, or he might see a splendid opening in a line of business by which he could occupy a palatial residence for a few hours, the owner being a silent partner. It is best to be prepared for emergencies. So thought Wen Fook as he left his 16 companions in the magnificent 7x9 apartment and wandered out into the night, while his mind reveled in poetic flights of fancy of the most approved Mongolian style. "It was three by the village clock," when he strolled around the corner of Front and B streets and into the arms of Officer Dobbins, who insisted on an explanation of his presence there. The poor heathen did his best to satisfy the minion of the law. He told him he worked on the railroad; then that he "washee-washee." Noticing the look of distrust that still lingered on the officer's face, he supplemented the last information by saying he was a cook. But all to no purpose. The hard-hearted captor marched his prisoner to the city jail and the boys proceeded to go through his pockets after the orthodox style. Strange to say they found nothing. Then one of the boys, who had had a little Bill Nye experience in Idaho, suggested that they shake him. This was done, until the boys got tired of dodging the flying articles, and then they made a clean-up. The pile assayed: One huge butcher knife, 1 large case knife, 1 large cold chisel, 1 steel watch spring saw and several other minor articles of like description. Then they locked him up in a little cell and in the afternoon took him before the judge. The harmless articles found after the prisoner's agitation were construed as concealed weapons, and the judge, fearing that Wen Fook's health might be undermined by any further midnight meanderings during the damp season now upon us, sent him to jail for 30 days.

HOW POWERS RECEIVED THE NEWS.—Jack Powers, who has been under the shadow of the gallows for seven months, first learned through THE OREGONIAN, to which he is a regular subscriber, that the supreme court had refused to grant him a new trial. A reporter of this paper called at the jail Tuesday evening and gave the news to Jailer McManus, who had not the heart to break it to the condemned man. Powers has not been in good health, and his constitution is fast giving way. It was rumored Tuesday afternoon that the supreme court had rendered a decision, and he heard of the rumor. Just before bed time McManus told Powers that a report was on the streets that the decision of the circuit court had been affirmed, but that it was only a rumor. Jack remarked that the news must be true; if a new trial had been granted, his friends and attorneys would have come to see him, but now they stayed away. When THE OREGONIAN was brought to him early in the morning and he read the short dispatch, he remarked, without bravado, and sorrowfully, "Well, if they want to hang me, let them do it. They can't cheat me out of many days anyhow." He has been buoyed up for months by the assurance of friends that the supreme court would give him a new trial, and now that this last hope is gone, he is perceptibly weaker.

DEMOCRATIC CITY CONVENTION.—The democrats of Portland will hold their nominating convention for city officers to-morrow at the court house. The primaries were unusually quiet, with the exception of the Third ward. Following are the delegates elected to the convention: First ward—George W. Leihy, T. Liebe, J. J. Holland, P. Esser, Al Zieber, H. Mullen, Chas. J. Christie, M. Dougherty, John Barry; second ward—A. Pennoyer, W. A. Scoggin, F. R. Strong, H. B. Nicholas, John S. Hughes, F. H. O. Taylor, D. F. Leahy; third ward—E. Corbett, Jas. Wilson, E. N. Humason, Thos. Gale, L. Parmenter, Ed Coles, W. R. Smith.

WORK OF AN INCENDIARY.—A fire was discovered early yesterday morning under the lower flooring of the American Exchange hotel, but was extinguished with only slight damage. The blaze was discovered by officer Hickey about a quarter past three, and he immediately turned in an alarm. No. Four's responded promptly and were just in time to prevent the flames from bursting through the floor. The fire was probably the work of an incendiary, as the fire spread from the edge of the building along the beams. A stranger was seen loitering about the building several times during the night.

CHOPPED HIS FINGERS.—Yesterday morning Thos. Reynolds, route agent for Wells, Fargo & Co., while chopping some wood for kindlings at his house, corner Fourth and Montgomery, accidentally struck his left hand with the hatchet which he was using. The blow nearly severed two of his fingers, and he bled profusely from the wound. He went to the office of Dr. H. Carpenter, who dressed his injuries. The doctor thinks the divided parts will unite in a little while. Moral—Let your wife cut the kindlings.

RETURNED.—Mr. James W. Bacheider arrived by the last steamer, on a visit to this city after an absence of nine years in San Francisco. "Jimmy" worked in the job printing offices here from 1861 to 1873, when he went to San Francisco. In a short time afterwards he entered the employ of the great grain merchant, Isaac Friedlander, where he has since remained. His numerous acquaintances and friends, both here and on the Sound, whither he goes in a day or two, will be glad to see him.

FRANCE'S NATIONAL HOLIDAY.—A meeting will be held this evening at the Orchestral Union hall on Morrison street, at 8 o'clock, by the native French-men and residents of Oregon. The object of the meeting is to appoint a committee to make arrangements for a grand celebration on the 14th of July, the French national holiday, in commemoration of the taking of the Bastile. All Frenchmen in the city and all who sympathize with France as a nation, are invited to attend the meeting this evening.

GROUNDS FOR WAREHOUSES.—The city council met last evening pursuant to adjournment and the question of the passage of the ordinance vacating portions of certain streets for the building of freight depots and warehouses was called up. There was no debate, and the ordinance was passed without a dissenting vote. [The streets vacated were published in THE OREGONIAN last Tuesday.] Council then adjourned until the regular meeting, next Wednesday night.

FIRE WARDENS.—The local of the Astorian "hyperbolizes" as follows: "No. Two's were out last evening, and deeper than the deepest diapason of a cathedral organ boomed the bass tremolo of the valves; and shriller than the sharpest treble shrieked the ear-piercing whistle; and louder than Niagara's cataract roared the stream of water, and higher than the highest housetops rose the lofty spray. To-night No. One's have a benefit."

THE ROAD TO TILLAMOOK.—Mr. Claude Thayer came over the mountains from Tillamook Monday. He found no snow, and states that the road is being greatly improved this season. By the 1st of July pleasure-seekers can cross by this route with comparatively little fatigue, and from present indications many will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit Tillamook and enjoy its delightful ocean breezes during the heated term.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—While the deck hands on the steamer Willamette Chief were at work moving a heavy iron boiler, the hand of one of them, Wm. Beck, was caught upon the jagged end of a rivet and a deep and ugly looking wound was torn in the center of the palm. The injured man was taken to St. Vincent's hospital, where the wound was dressed by Dr. Rex. The hurt is a painful but not a severe one, unless blood poisoning should result.

DID NOT ASK A NEW TRIAL.—Yesterday was the last day in which to file a motion for a new trial in the Bradley case, and this was not done. It is understood that no appeal will be taken, and that Bradley will be sentenced to-day or to-morrow.

STOLEN DIAMONDS.—Constable Simmons arrested Lewis Bochmer yesterday for stealing three rings belonging to Mrs. Cook, of "The Cottage." Bochmer pawned one of the rings and thus gave a clue which led to his detection and arrest.

FINED $5250.—Capt. Nicholson, of the British steamer Glenelg, was fined $5250 in the U. S. district court yesterday for having carried from Hongkong 105 passengers in excess of the number permitted by law.

THE HIGH WATER.

The line is again down east of Rooster Rock, and no news from the Upper Columbia except that brought by last night's boat. Passengers report a slight rise at The Dalles and Celilo. The Willamette rose about half an inch yesterday until 3 P. M., and dropped back the half inch by midnight, the gauge marking 24 feet 1 inch. It is worthy of remark that notwithstanding the upper Columbia fell several days ago, the Willamette kept up.

HIGHER IN 1876.

PORTLAND, June 14.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Was the water higher in 1876 than in 1882? If higher, how much? If lower, how much? W. F.

[The Willamette was about two feet higher in 1876 than in 1882. Will some pioneer, who knows, furnish the exact figures?]

The Baptists of the Willamette Association will hold their annual meeting this year in East Portland, beginning Wednesday, June 21, and not Friday, the 23d, as was published, by mistake, in the Oregonian. Baptists please take notice and see fifth page of minutes. Arrangements with railroads and steamers—full fare coming and 80 per cent. deduction on return fare.

SECOND RIVE-KING CONCERT.

During the interval between the concert of Monday and that of last evening, the great pianist and her playing has been a topic of general comment among concert-goers, musical and non-musical, in this city. Careful attention to the spirit pervading such comment is of great value, enabling the critic, especially, to avoid an estimate narrowed to the limit of his own impressions. The opinions of Madame King from those who heard her play on Monday resolved themselves unanimously, and without qualification, into expressions of [illegible] appreciation of her great powers. At the close of the concert last night she had more than confirmed her position.

The arranging of the programmes for Madame King's concerts requires much thought and careful adjustment to the assumed capacity of the audiences before whom she is to play. At times it is possible to under estimate these musical proclivities. The advertised programme yesterday was criticised as somewhat meagre. Yielding timorously but most gracefully to the earnest desire of a few at the eleventh hour it was determined that Madame King should play a Beethoven Sonata.

The house was a good one, and the three choice numbers by Schumann were faultlessly played, [illegible] so simple in character as to call for little explanation.

It is the habit of great pianists, rather than a want of power in the public, to understand that the sonatas of Beethoven are not more frequently features in the programmes of their [illegible] recitals. It is also a tacit and a glaring one that of the thirty-two published, only such as will demonstrate the phenomenal Fingerfertigkeit of the performer are chosen. As a matter of fact those sonatas of Beethoven which make less demand on the player in respect of finger development are many of them most grandly, in subtle beauty, poetry and passion, and, when performed by artists willing to abnegate their personality in favor of the composer, appeal irresistibly and surely to an average audience.

When Madame King appeared for the second time in the evening, it was to make a crucial test of the musical character of the audience. She was to be, and the prestige—for any honest acceptance of the Sonata would at least be determined. The "Sonata appassionata" was evidently a revelation. As the brilliant cadenza concluded, making place for the sighing cadences preceding the piu allegro climax to the first movement, the quiet that reigned told that the grand old master had made one more conquest and at the hands of a perfect exponent. The graceful theme of the andante came out clean and clear, phrased with the most perfect accent. The allegro was magnificently worked out. It is marked, ma non troppo, and if one could cavil at all it would be at the too rapid tempo at which the last movement was taken. But it was a grand performance throughout, and Madame King must have felt no small gratification as the storm of applause shook the house. She had by her art, and in the very teeth of croaking prejudice, won a place for classical music here. The applause was unremitting until she consented to play again. Into the Chopin Etude, in C sharp minor, which she played in response to the demand, she infused an indescribable poetic charm, until, as the last tender touches hung upon the keys, one drifted in imagination away upon

"The tides of Music's golden sea,
Setting toward eternity."

The vocal part of the concert was thoroughly enjoyable, and was in every respect more satisfactory than that of Monday.

To-morrow evening Madame King will play a Prelude and Fugue, by Guilmant; Nocturne G minor, Chopin; a Liszt arrangement of the Spinning Song, from Wagner's Fliegender Hollander, and other solos not yet decided upon.

REPUBLICAN CITY CONVENTION.

Candidates for Councilmen Selected—Nomination for Mayor Postponed till Friday.

The republican city convention met at the county court room yesterday afternoon, and was called to order by Ward S. Stevens, chairman of the central committee.

A. W. Waters was chosen chairman and A. E. Borthwick secretary.

B. Waymouth, P. H. Schulderman and Donald Mackay were appointed a committee on credentials, and reported the following persons entitled to seats as delegates:

First Ward—J. E. Smith, by C. P. Hogue, proxy; C. C. Philips, Donald Mackay, J. C. Carson, A. E. Borthwick, J. A. Ahlstedt, P. H. Schulderman.

Second Ward—D. C. McKercher, H. J. Scherber, Geo. H. Durham, N. S. Pierce, by J. H. Misener, proxy; O. F. Sites, by A. W. Waters, proxy; J. H. Misener, C. A. M. Myers, B. Waymouth, A. J. Woodworth, by L. H. Parsons, proxy.

Third Ward—J. A. Strowbridge, Daniel Raymond, Geo. Herrall, D. L. June, John Epperly, M. Peterson, by A. W. Waters, proxy; J. J. Allard, by L. Besser, proxy; Harry Morgan, Rob't Holman, by F. D. Matthews, proxy; Geo. Ham, by J. M. Vaughan, M. Tierney, by Dr. J. S. Giltner, proxy.

Delegates Durham, Strowbridge and Ahlsted were appointed a committee on permanent order of business, and recommended the nomination first, of councilmen, then of mayor, then appointment of a central committee.

The ward delegations then retired and in a few minutes reported the following nominations:

First Ward—Joseph E. Smith.

Second Ward—Dr. S. J. Barber.

Third Ward—Judge Wm. H. Adams.

On motion of J. C. Carson the convention took a recess until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

BRIEF MENTION.

A patent has been granted to Egbert D. Haven, of Albany, for a cable power wheel.

The Unitarian Sunday school will give their annual excursion Saturday, to Vancouver and vicinity per the steamer Washington.

"Edwin Arnold," at Unitarian chapel to-night. This will be the last opportunity which Portlanders will have to hear Mrs. Williams.

Here they are again! Mrs. Jas. Turk and her son Charles, were arrested last night for assault on James Franklin—the same Franklin of old.

The Third Ward Hook and Ladder Co., of East Portland will open their new hall, corner of Washington and Tenth streets, in a formal manner on Wednesday evening next.

JULIE RIVE-KING MATINEE.

Yielding to a quite general demand Manager Locke has decided to give a matinee concert at the theater at popular prices Saturday afternoon. The programme will be brilliant and popular, introducing Madame King and the entire company. Seats may be secured at Prince's musical store to-day at half the usual prices, viz. 50 and 75 cents, the latter including reserved seats.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Jay Rial's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company drew three crowded houses at Salem. They return this evening and give a performance at New Market. The take of reserve seats shows that the wonderful popularity of the piece has not waned, and a full house is assured.

THE PROVERBIAL FIFTEENTH!

The above date will be remembered [illegible] years hence by the many thousands who have had [illegible] an interest in the cash distribution which will take place at Mellis Bros. & Co. on that day. Fifteen hundred dollars have been divided already. Five hundred dollars will be added to that amount to-night and Fifteen hundred more will find their way to the purses of their patrons next week. We ourselves take no stock in bedroom sets or parlor organs, (which reminds us that Mrs. Wendt, of East Portland, will be one of the few who don't growl at a printer's mistake), but one of the Fifty dollar cash prizes would come in very handy just now, as our spring suit has been ruined in the attempt to, bodily, raise the big cylinder press out of reach of the coming flood. If there is any justice or a new spring suit left in this world, we, of all men, would like to be favored by Providence. It is true, we received 7 pair of shaker socks for our silver dollar, but we claim to have as much right to be lucky as if we had the controlling interest in the O. R. & N. Co. instead of being just a plain, unpretending sort of a newspaper reporter.

EARLY MORNING FIRE.

The Frame Range Corner First and Alder Destroyed.

At five minutes before two this morning fire broke out in Bernstein's tailor shop on Alder street and destroyed the frame range on the northeast corner of First and Alder. An alarm was sounded from box 12, and One's had a stream on in good season, but the hose burst in less than a minute and much valuable time was lost. Three's came next with an excellent stream, but not enough to check the fire, which spread to Berger & Beck's paint shop, and John Williams's bill posting office on the east and Sifert & Hackney's restaurant and Finnen's cigar store on the west.

The entire fire apparatus of the department seemed to be out of order, and at one time every engine had stopped. For more than two minutes not a drop of water was thrown. Being located in the very heart of the business portion of the city, the fire occasioned considerable excitement throughout town and large crowds hurried to the scene. The night was dark and it seemed to those living back of [illegible] street that an immense fire was in progress.

The range was owned by George P. Greene, of East Portland, and is probably not insured. The buildings were worth only about $1000, but they paid a large rent and the consequent damage will not be light.

Bernstein's loss is about $3000; insured.

Sifert & Hackney removed most of their furniture. Their loss will be about $500; insured.

John Finnen's stock is a total loss—fully insured.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but from the very rapid start is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, June 14.

Mrs. Anna G. Sprague, of Walla Walla, is visiting friends and relatives in this city.

The commencement exercises at the Willamette University are being largely attended.

Van B. De Lashmutt, of your city, was observed dodging around on our crowded streets last evening.

Pete Sullivan, of your county, was furnished with a suite of rooms at the Hotel de Bush, near this city, yesterday.

The supreme court has adjourned sine die, and His Honor Judge Watson has gone to Jacksonville to spend his vacation.

The city council held a special meeting on Monday evening last, and decided to purchase a fourth class steam fire engine for the city.

Miss Mary Savage, of this city, started for Eastern Oregon yesterday, to spend the summer with her married sisters in Umatilla county.

Mrs. W. P. Lord, wife of our honored chief justice of the supreme court, is visiting friends in your city, accompanied by Master Montague.

The up mail train ran off the track at Hubbard station this morning, and delayed its arrival here about two hours. No serious damage was done.

"How has Tillamook gone?" is the leading question among politicians in this city who are interested in the election of prosecuting attorney for this district.

Julie Rive-King is announced to appear at Reed's opera house to-morrow (Thursday) evening. A large number of reserved seats have already been disposed of.

Jay Rial's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" drew an immense house here last evening, and gave universal satisfaction. Matinee this afternoon and their last appearance here this evening.

The pioneers reunion will take place on the state fair grounds to-morrow (Thursday). A large crowd will undoubtedly be present. The ball in the evening promises to be a very pleasant affair. Bray & Varney's orchestra will be present.

NEWS FROM SPRAGUE.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

SPRAGUE, W. T., June 12th.

Public school began on the 5th inst. with some 45 pupils, Rev. Geo. W. Sloan teacher, for the time being.

Fairweather & Brooke, bankers, have just received a Fairbanks Macneal & Urban fire and burglar proof safe.

Sprague proposes to celebrate on the 4th of July. Committees have been appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

A strawberry festival for the benefit of the Episcopal church is contemplated by the ladies of the guild, about the 21st inst.

Robert Downs has sold his band of sheep, consisting of [illegible] head of good quality. His is but one of several bands of sheep in this locality.

Lumber is now arriving in plenty from Rathdrum, Hey [illegible] and other points. Rough lumber is sold for $20 per thousand, and finished for $[illegible].

The finest outfit in town is the new [illegible] horses and wagon of Sprague & Fairweather. It has not as yet made its appearance upon the streets, but the knowing ones say it is lovely.

Col. C. Mason Kinnie, general agent of the Island reliable Liverpool, and London and Globe insurance Co., spent last Friday in town. He is an affable gentleman and looks well after the interests of the companies which he represents. Fairweather & Brooke are the local agents.

W. H. Carr is building an office on [illegible] street and will shortly have on hand a stock of agricultural implements. Sprague & Fairweather, Field Kronkopf and Ferrers & McCarty also have similar stocks. If the supply is any indication of the demand, the indication is a favorable one.

A grist mill is in course of construction in the Crab creek country, about nine miles from Sprague. Such a mill would do well here, as I am informed sufficient wheat is received for the purpose in this vicinity. At present, flour is brought from Cheney and Colfax, and retails at $5 per barrel.

The O. R. & N. Co. train on account of the washout at Wallula Junction with the N. P. R. R. train, and in consequence the people of Sprague were deprived of their daily mail. Connection was made, however, on Sunday, bringing THE OREGONIAN, with its account of high water in Portland. Sprague, in addition to many other advantages, congratulates herself in being above high water mark.

Work has begun on the new passenger depot, which will be an artistic and commodious building. It is evident from the nature of the improvements being made by the Northern Pacific Railroad Company at this point that they are intended to be permanent. The general office building is so far completed as to be occupied by the division superintendent, and would be an ornament to any town. Mr. Clinton Day is the architect.

Sunday June 4th, being Trinity Sunday, services were held by the Episcopalians in their own building, which will be used for the present as a church, until sufficient funds can be raised for the erection of a more costly structure. It is 16x34 feet, was begun on the morning of Saturday, June 3d, and finished along so energetically by Mr. R. R. Jones and his force of carpenters that by night it was sufficiently completed for church to be held in it on the day following. This is the first building to be erected in Sprague for church purposes, and to the Rev. Dr. Nevius belongs the credit.

OREGON STATE MEDICAL SOCIETY.

The regular annual meeting of the society commenced yesterday at 2 P. M., in the hall of the Orchestral Union. The society was called to order by the president, Dr. C. H. Merrick, and an address of welcome delivered by Mrs. A. L. Ford-Warren, M. D., chairman of the committee of arrangements.

The roll call and reading of correspondence by the secretary followed and the annual reports of the secretary and treasurer received.

The election of officers was postponed until to-day at 2 P. M.

Reports of interest on medical and surgical topics were then read by Dr. C. H. Hall and Dr. Reece Holmes, of Salem.

The society then adjourned to meet again to-day at 10 A. M.

The meeting this evening will be open to the public and all interested in the work of the society are invited to attend. The annual address of the president will be given and followed by addresses from several prominent members of the society and others. The meeting will be held in the Orchestral Union hall on Morrison street, between Third and Fourth.

IT WAS NOT MALPRACTICE.

Some weeks since THE OREGONIAN published a statement of facts, as they were furnished, out of which arose the case of Eaton vs Dr. Henry E. Jones, in the circuit court for this district. The trial of the case was concluded yesterday, and resulted in a verdict by the jury in favor of the defendant.

The facts as disclosed by the trial were as follows: On the 3d day of September, 1880, Eaton sustained a severe wound on the foot by being jammed with a heavy plank in a cabin [illegible] on a boat. The plank struck the foot on the instep, well up to the ankle joint and turned away the flesh from the sole of the foot, crushing great tendons and ligaments. On the same day Eaton was taken to St. Vincent's hospital and treated by Dr. Rex, Dr. Jones being absent from the city. On the fourth day afterwards, Dr. Jones returned and visited the patient at the hospital, but he [illegible] than a partial examination of the wound, but sufficient to enable him to form the opinion that gangrene had set in. The next morning Dr. Jones, in company with his brother, Dr. Wm. Jones and Dr. Rex, visited the patient, made a careful examination of the wound, found the temperature at 103, and traumatic gangrene well established, and the result of the consultation was an opinion that amputation was necessary to save the patient's life. He was fully informed of the facts and of his danger, and consented to the operation, which was soon after performed by Dr. Henry Jones assisted by the consulting surgeons. The operation was fully described to the jury. The patient was very much reduced by the injury and by the shock, but seemed to get along well. Not long after the amputation sloughing took place in such manner as to expose about one half inch of the tibial bone which necrosed, and the patient being too much reduced to stand the shock of a secondary amputation, Dr. Jones and the consulting surgeons concluded to remove the end of the exposed bone which was done, thus enabling the patient to recover without further loss of blood or shock to the system, which he was in no condition to endure without great danger to his life.

This removal of the end of bone of course made the bones uneven in length. The patient recovered perfectly, but complained of pain in the stump. It was also shown that the patient was of a rheumatic tendency, having, within a year, spent some months in the hospital with inflammatory rheumatism, and was of intemperate habits.

The plaintiff, Eaton, had brought an action against the corporation whose employe injured him, alleging that amputation was necessary and compromised the case, receiving several hundred dollars.

In the case against Dr. Jones it was claimed, first, that amputation was not necessary, and, second, that the operation was unskillful. A large number of surgeons were called by both parties, among whom were Drs. Harvey, Kinney, Watkins, Chapman, Carpenter, Frazer, Wells, Rex and Wm. Jones, etc., however, all agreeing that the amputation was necessary, and that the operation and subsequent treatment were in the highest degree skillful and proper. The jury, after being absent only 15 minutes, took the same just view of the case.

IMPROVEMENT!

The old buildings on Morrison street, between Front and First—ancient city landmarks, as they were—have at last succumbed to the march of progress and improvement. They are now demolished, and on their site a spacious and elegant building will be erected.

The new building, first and second floors, will be occupied by the GOLDEN RULE BAZAAR, now doing business at 162 First street, next door to corner of Morrison. The back wall of this latter building will be taken out to make connection with the new structure, completing the handsomest and brightest store in Portland.

During the erection of the new building, special inducements are being offered at 162 First street. The proprietors of the GOLDEN RULE BAZAAR possess exceptional facilities. They procure the newest and most desirable goods from European and American manufacturers, and offer them, WHOLESALE and RETAIL, at strictly New York rates.

This assertion has been found to be correct by every visitor to the establishment. They sell all goods at one price, which price is marked in plain figures. They guarantee every article in the establishment, being willing to cheerfully exchange goods or return money, when so desired.

They are pleased to show visitors through their store, urging no one to purchase.

Their stock consists of Ladies' Fancy Goods, such as laces, corsets, ribbons, dress trimmings, handkerchiefs, gloves, hosiery, etc.

Of Meriden Silver Ware, all the goods made by this celebrated Company. Rogers Bros.' forks, knives and spoons in all patterns. The Ansonia Co's fine clocks, all guaranteed. John Russel Co's famous table cutlery; frames of all kinds, brackets, toilet articles, brushes, stationery, bronzes, ornaments, knick-knacks, smokers' goods, albums, chromos, bird cages, and hundreds of useful and ornamental articles in every day demand.

They offer special inducements to the trade, and also TAKE PARTICULAR CARE IN FILLING ALL ORDERS FROM THE COUNTRY. Write to them for prices and information.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The English Consul-General Asks his Countrymen to Leave.

RENEWED EFFORTS MADE TO INCITE THE POPULACE.

The Resignation of Count Ignatieff Creates a Feeling of Satisfaction in Germany—Continued Illness of the Empress of Russia.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CAIRO, June 14.—The khedive and Dervish Pasha went to Alexandria in pursuance of orders from the sultan yesterday. Arabi Pasha rode to the depot in the same carriage with the khedive. Owing to sending reinforcements to Alexandria only 20 cavalry and half a regiment of artillery are left in Cairo.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 14.—Several Turkish iron clads are now ready to embark troops for Egypt, if necessary.

The sultan invited the British ambassador to the palace to-day, and expressed to him his regret at the affray Sunday in Alexandria, and especially at the wounding of the British consul and killing of the engineer of the British man of war.

ALEXANDRIA, June 14.—The bodies of several Europeans killed Sunday, show bayonet wounds.

The governor visited the quarter looted by rioters, and arrested 250 Arabs. Two young men named Ostani and Ross, the former a son of a well known banker, and the latter a son of a prominent lawyer of Cairo, were found dead.

ALEXANDRIA, June 14.—The khedive drove through the Arab and European part of the city to-day without escort.

The army is showing signs of insubordination. Egyptian troops are accompanied by Janissaries.

Consuls have authorized arrest of all Europeans caught firing out of windows at natives.

Among the victims of Sunday are six Englishmen, one German and three Italians.

The work of exciting the population is complete. Papers are distributed among the populace summoning them to be ready at any moment. The Italian consul has issued a notice to all Italians to quit the country.

The Marseilles, Mediterranean squadron has been ordered to be ready to proceed to Alexandria.

Sir Edward Malet has started from Cairo to Alexandria.

The Excitement Increasing.

ALEXANDRIA, June 14.—The statement of Dilke in British commons that the riot in Alexandria was not of a political character caused consternation among European residents and encouraged natives to further violence. Europeans anxiously desire England should make a firm declaration of the course that will be pursued in the Egyptian crisis. A mail steamer took 300 deck passengers who paid first class fares, and three other steamers took a thousand passengers. Boatmen asked fifty francs to carry persons on board steamers. The usual fare is one franc.

Advised to Leave.

LONDON, June 14.—A correspondent of the Times at Cairo states the English consul general desires British residents to quit Egypt without official request, which might produce a panic. He will remain here a few days to reassure public feeling.

The Second Exodus from Egypt.

ALEXANDRIA, June 14.—Soldiers are openly asking for deposition of the khedive and declaring they will if necessary oppose Turkey herself. Not only women and children are leaving the country, but men with large material interests in Egypt are beginning to take passage, and leaving property behind. Many large capitalists are arranging to leave Egypt permanently, not in a panic, but after calmly calculating the cost of such a step.

Funeral of the Victims.

ALEXANDRIA, June 14.—The bodies of the engineer of the English iron-clad Superb, and two seamen of the [illegible], killed in the riot Sunday, have been buried at sea, as it was deemed imprudent to risk the dangers that might have arisen from a funeral on shore. As the barge containing the bodies passed up, the steamer Galena Marquis fired a salute, and all on board uncovered heads.

Arrival of Refugees.

NICOSIA, Cyprus, June 14.—Many refugees from Egypt, mostly families of British residents of Alexandria, have arrived here.

Parliamentary Proceedings.

LONDON, June 14.—In the discussion of the repression bill in commons, Gladstone agreed that entry into an evicted holding should not be punishable unless it was effected by force, and that of two magistrates exercising summary jurisdiction, one must be a lawyer.

Harcourt promised a new summary jurisdiction so far as it applies to assault of bailiffs, etc., should be exercised only in proclaimed districts.

Vote of the Royal Family.

LONDON, June 14.—The prince of Wales, duke of Edinburgh, duke of Albany and nearly all the members of the government voted with the minority in the house of lords yesterday, ordering the bill legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister, to its second reading. The bulk of conservatives and all the bishops voted with the majority.

Foreign Notes.

The retirement of Gen. Ignatieff from the ministry of the interior has caused much satisfaction in Berlin.

Russian funds rose on the London stock exchange on Wednesday.

The appointment of Count Tolstoi is not considered any special concession to European powers, as he represents orthodox Russians, although he has not Gen. Ignatieff's extreme antipathy to Germans. Ignatieff goes abroad, where he remains some time.

At London wool sales Wednesday 11,000 bales were sold, including New Zealand and Victorian. Brisk demand and rates firm.

PARIS, June 14.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday, the bill re-establishing the divorce law passed a second reading by 344 to 143. The budget committee rejected the grant for maintenance of an embassy at the vatican. In consequence of the action of the chamber of deputies Saturday in voting abolition of irremovability of judges and in favor of the principle of electing judges, Humbert, minister of justice, tendered his resignation. President Grevy refused to accept it, and Humbert now asks leave of absence for one month.

The Norwegian storthing has again rejected the proposed increase of allowance to the crown prince upon his marriage.

The czar has approved the resolution of the imperial council in favor of the foundation of a bank for the purpose of facilitating acquisition of land by peasants.

The Belgian elections have increased the liberal majority in deputies from 14 to 18 and in the senate from 4 to 8.

An official bulletin states that the empress of Russia, whose confinement occurred yesterday morning, is suffering from unusual exhaustion.

Trials for Treason.

LEMBERG, June 14.—The trial of Ruthenenians for assisting in organizing a Russophile agitation in Galicia has begun. Indictments are on charge of high treason.

Servian Affairs.

BELGRADE, June 14.—Radicals whose seats were declared vacant by a party vote of progressists, taken when no quorum was present in the skuptschina, have been re-elected.

A report is current that the emperor of Austria assures King Milan of military support, but a compromise is hoped for.

Doubrief, Russian minister to Austro-Hungary, has been recalled.

The number drowned by the recent flood at Versecz, Hungary, was 41.

Gleaned from Great Britain.

LONDON, June 14.—The fifth and sixth clauses of the repression bill have been adopted.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Washington Territory.

Hay harvest has begun on Snake river.

Crickets are numerous on Spokane prairie.

The Seattle ice factory will be in operation by the 1st of July.

The new hotel at Cheney will require 170,000 feet of lumber in its construction.

The stage and mail line between Cheney and Colfax will go into effect July 1st.

Washington seminary at Huntsville has an endowment fund of $2000 and an indebtedness of $750.

Mrs. Rew, wife of R. A. Rew of Pomeroy, died at her home in that place on the 4th inst., of measles.

A new addition of 48 acres has recently been made to Pomeroy, and is now being laid off into town lots.

Frank [illegible], while riding in the stage between Pomeroy and Dayton, recently lost $250 in gold coin from his pocket while taking a nap. By diligent search he recovered $80.

There is some 300 acres of corn growing finely in the vicinity of Huntsville, Whitman county. Corn planting is the present occupation of the owners of these acres, and a bountiful yield is promised.

The grading of the Dry creek extension of the Mill Creek Flume and Manufacturing company's railroad is making satisfactory progress. The company expects to have the road ready for use by July 15th.

Jacob Walker and John Schrak, from Dakota, representing a society known as the Hutterians society, were in Waitsburg last week. They were sent out to look for a location to plant a colony of a hundred families.

During the extremely high water on the Skagit, last week, some 1,500,000 feet of logs broke loose and went to sea. The greater part of them will probably be picked up at the mouth of the river, but the loss will be large.

The smallpox excitement, so far as Seattle is concerned, has entirely abated. The two members of the Nellie Boyd troupe—the only cases that have occurred near the city—have nearly recovered and no new cases have been developed.

Blackman Bros. have been putting into the water at their Pilchuck camp, some unusually large logs of late. Last week three fir trees were cut which, after being sawed into logs and scaled, were found to contain 38,000 feet of lumber. One scaled 14,000 and the other two 12,000 feet each.

Considerable flax has been grown about Moscow, and yielded in 1880, 14 bushels, and in 1881, 15 bushels to the acre. The crop saved in 1881 was 150,000 bushels, and 25,000 bushels were spoiled, owing to early fall rains and the difficulty of saving it.

Eastern Oregon.

Prineville News: Reports are received from the surrounding country to the effect that the crop of wheat, rye and oats will be very light unless a thorough wetting rain soon visits this section. It is also reported and confirmed that grasshoppers are fast destroying much grain. Owing to the dry nature of the soil some of the spring-sown grain has scarcely sprouted. Up to the present time the rainfall has been barely sufficient to keep the grass in a flourishing condition, and yet those who pretend to know say that a good crop of cereals may be expected even if it rains within the next two weeks. The harvest is very late, and may seem very strange to western Oregon farmers to hear of oats that are sown in June producing an abundant crop of well filled grain. Yet such is the case, as has been proven by several of our Ochoco farmers. The coming harvest cannot be estimated, as moisture is necessary to the maturity of crops. While the present outlook is not the brightest, there is no cause for despair, for a good rain or two would bring the grain out in good shape, and thereby repay the farmers for their labor in trying to demonstrate the practicability of tilling our sagebrush soil.

WOMAN'S WISDOM.

"She insists that it is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—New Haven Palladium.

Crops Around Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—Reports as to growing crops have been received from over forty country towns in the sections of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia, tributary to Pittsburg. The tenor of the reports is, on the whole, very encouraging. The wheat crop of this section, was, perhaps, never more promising. One or two reports from Ohio tell of a little damage by late rains, but only one report is absolutely unfavorable, while the majority of them rate the wheat crop far above the average. There is a noticeable unanimity in regard to the corn crop which has every where been much thrown back by late rains, and in some sections of Ohio part of the acreage intended for planting, is still unplanted. In most cases, however, the adverse outlook will pass away with good weather, and a few reports are above the average. The reports on oats range from very poor to very good, with the general result of a little below average.

Oats in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, June 14.—The state agricultural department has issued its June report on the oats crop in Illinois. The condition is more promising than a month ago, and an average or better yield per acre is promised in a majority of counties of the state. The area of oats is larger than last season, when 58,744,514 bushels were harvested, and the condition of the crop more promising than at the corresponding date in 1881.

The Army Worm's Work.

DAYTON, O., June 16.—A Journal's special from Warren and Butler counties, states the army worm is totally destroying grain. Worms appeared in millions and are passing northward through the Mississippi valley. In a few hours they almost totally destroyed a field of hay. Wheat is in a fine condition and will be ready for harvest in a week.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE OREGON and Transcontinental Company:

You are hereby notified that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Oregon and Transcontinental Company will be held at the office of the company, at the city of Portland, in the county of Multnomah, in the state of Oregon, on Monday, the 19th day of June, 1882, at 2 o'clock M. of said day, for the purpose of electing directors of said company to serve for the ensuing year, and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.

And you are further notified that in pursuance of a resolution duly passed at a meeting of the board of directors of said company, held at the office of the company May 3d, 1882, the following resolution, authorizing the filing of supplementary articles of incorporation of said company, will be submitted to said annual stockholders' meeting for consideration and adoption, viz.:

Resolved, That the directors of this company be and they are hereby instructed and directed to file as soon as they can reasonably be prepared and executed, supplementary articles of incorporation, amending the present articles of this company by inserting at the end of the 12th clause or section of the first subdivision of Article Three of the original articles the following:

13th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point of junction with the Northern Pacific railroad, at or near the mouth of Washtucna Coulee, in the territory of Washington, in a generally easterly direction up said Washtucna Coulee, by way of Rebel Flat, to a point at or near the town of Moscow, in Idaho territory, with a branch line from a junction with said line near the mouth of Rebel Flat creek, in a generally northeasterly direction, by way of Cottonwood creek, to the town of Farmington, in said territory of Washington.

And another branch line from a point of junction with said line, about three miles west of the town of Colfax, in the territory of Washington, through the town of Colfax, and thence up the north branch of the Palouse river to its head.

14th—A railroad and telegraph line commencing at or near Sand Point station, on the Northern Pacific railroad, in the territory of Idaho, and following down the valley of Clarke's Fork of the Columbia river to its junction with the Columbia river; thence down the valley of the Columbia river to a point at or near the town of Ainsworth, in Washington territory.

15th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Northern Pacific railroad at or near the town of Spokane Falls, in the territory of Washington, by the most practicable route, via the valley of the Colville river, to the junction of said Colville river with the Columbia river, in said territory.

16th—A railroad and telegraph line from, at or near the town of Spokane Falls, in the territory of Washington, down the Spokane river to its mouth.

17th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Northern Pacific railroad, at or near the town of Spokane Falls, in the territory of Washington, in a generally northwesterly direction, via the middle pass of the Grand Coulee to the Columbia river about seven miles above Old Fort Okinakane, with a branch line from a junction with said line at said middle pass of the Grand Coulee, in a generally westerly direction to the Columbia river, at a point about ten miles above the mouth of the Whatcheie river.

18th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Northern Pacific railroad near Lake Colville in the territory of Washington, in a generally westerly direction, by the way of Sylvan lake and Crab creek, skirting the southern slope of the Badger mountains, to the Columbia river, crossing the said river at the most eligible point below the mouth of the Whatcheie river; thence up the Whatcheie river to its head, crossing the Cascade mountains at Ward's pass; thence down the Skykomish and Snohomish rivers to the town of Cadyville; thence in a northerly direction along the shore of Puget sound to Fidalgo island in said territory of Washington.

19th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point at or near Thirty Mile Well station, on the Northern Pacific railroad, in the territory of Washington, to Ringgold bar, in the Columbia river; thence in a generally westerly direction, by the most practicable route, to Yakima City; thence up the Natchess river, crossing the Cascade mountains at Natchez pass, thence in a generally northwesterly direction to the city of New Tacoma, in said territory of Washington.

20th—A railroad and telegraph line from, at or near the town of Ainsworth, in Washington territory, in a generally northwesterly direction up the Yakima river, crossing the Cascade mountains at Garfield pass; thence in a generally northwesterly direction to the city of Seattle, in the territory of Washington.

21st—A railroad and telegraph line from a point of junction with the Northern Pacific railroad, at or near Lake Colville, in Washington territory, in a generally northerly direction, to the Big Bend in the Columbia river in said territory.

22d—A railroad and telegraph line from a point of junction with the Northern Pacific railroad at or near Rathdrum station, in Idaho territory, in a generally easterly direction to Fort Coeur d'Alene, in said territory.

23d—A railroad and telegraph line from a point at or near the town of Spokane Falls, on the line of the Northern Pacific railroad, in Washington territory, in a generally southeasterly direction, a distance of about sixty miles up the valley of Hangman's creek, to its head, to the territory of Idaho.

24th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Northern Pacific railroad at or near the town of Cheney, in the territory of Washington, in a generally southeasterly direction to a connection with the aforesaid line from the mouth of Rebel Flat to the town of Farmington.

25th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Columbia river at or near the mouth of Neholselitkwa river, in Washington territory, up said Neholselitkwa river, to the mouth of Foes creek, thence in a generally westerly direction, by the most practicable route, to Lake Osoyoos, in said territory.

26th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Columbia river at or near the mouth of San Puell river, in the territory of Washington, in a generally northerly direction to a junction with the last mentioned line, about forty miles east of Lake Osoyoos.

27th—A railroad and telegraph line from a point on the Columbia river at or near the mouth of [illegible] river, in the territory of Washington in a generally [illegible] direction to Lake Osoyoos.

28th—A railroad and telegraph line from the town of Lewiston, on Snake river, in Idaho territory, in a generally easterly direction up the valley of Clearwater river through the [illegible] to the town of Missoula, in the territory of Montana.
